

What Happens if you aren't there to catch them?

You don't buy life insurance because you're going to die, you buy it because those you love are going to live.

Does someone depend on you financially?

Own your home? If you are like most people, your home is your most significant financial asset. Life insurance can be used to pay down or retire the mortgage, sparing your family from moving to a less expensive place to live. Plus, it can provide the funds needed to help family members maintain the lifestyle to which they're accustomed.

Changing jobs? If you've recently been promoted or changed jobs, it's a good time to re-evaluate your life insurance coverage. Why? You may not realize it, but when your income rises, your spending tends to rise too. Updating your life insurance coverage can help insure that your family will be able to maintain its new and improved lifestyle if something were to happen to you.

Retired or Planning for Retirement? If your children are on their own and your mortgage is paid off, you might feel your need for life insurance has passed. But if you die today, your spouse could outlive you by 10, 20 or 30 years. Would your spouse have to make drastic lifestyle adjustments to make ends meet? Adequate life insurance can help the surviving spouse avoid financial struggles in retirement.
